From Enlightenment to Modern Architecture (Dr. habil. Sonja Hildebrand)

In the Spring Semester the emphasis is on the main tendencies of Western architecture since the Age of "Enlightenment": classicism, romantic and historicist architecture, the reform movements of the late 19th century as well as the modern architecture in the years preceding the Great War.

By studying exemplary architecture, significant positions and relevant building types of that period a basic knowledge of architectural history will be imparted. The history of architecture is regarded as a part of a comprehensive history, in which the architectural concepts will be discussed within their cultural, political and social correlations.

Art and Architecture of the Middle Ages II: The Gothic Period in France (Prof. Dr. Andreas Tönnesmann)

This section of the lecture provides a historical outline of gothic architecture in France.
